UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE ON THE ELIMINATION
OR REDUCTION OF FUTURE STATELESSNESS

Israel: amendment to the United Kingdom amendment to article 8
(A/CONF.9/L.80)

Substitute for paragraphs 4, 5 and 6 the following:

4. A person may be deprived of the nationality of a Contracting State, notwithstanding that such deprivation renders him stateless, on the following grounds:

- (a) voluntarily consenting to enter, entering, or continuing in, the service of another State in disregard of an express prohibition by the Contracting State;
- (b) taking an oath, or making a formal declaration, of allegiance to another State;
- (c) assisting an enemy State in time of war;
- (d) being convicted of an act seriously prejudicial to national security or, in the case of a person who is in a foreign country, having been charged with such an act and, having been duly notified of such charge, failing, without adequate cause, to return for trial.

5. A naturalized person may be deprived of the nationality of a Contracting State, notwithstanding that such deprivation renders him stateless, on the grounds of conduct gravely inconsistent with the duty of loyalty owed by him to that State; such grounds being recognized by the national law in force on .....September, 1961, and specified for the purposes of this paragraph by the State at the time of signature, ratification or accession.

6. Notwithstanding anything in paragraphs 2, 3, 4 or 5 of this article, a person shall not be deprived of the nationality of a Contracting State, so as to be rendered stateless, except under due process of law providing for submission of the case to a judicial tribunal or to some other completely independent and impartial body acting in a judicial or quasi-judicial manner.
