
YEARBOOK OF THE INTERNATIONAL LAW COMMISSION 2014

Volume II, Part Two

Report of the Commission to the General Assembly on the work of its sixty-sixth session

Corrigendum

Page 36, commentary to article 12, paragraph (1)

At the end of the paragraph, insert the following:

Indeed, the condition that the extradition procedure must be “ongoing” follows logically from the fact that, before that procedure is initiated, it cannot be taken for granted nor can the State be reproached for having circumvented an extradition procedure that does not yet exist. The same would be true if the extradition procedure had already been exhausted.