Tabulation of some agenda items bearing upon Article 10.....	28

TEXT OF ARTICLE 10

The General Assembly may discuss any questions or any matters within the scope of the present Charter or relating to the powers and functions of any organs provided for in the present Charter, and, except as provided in Article 12, may make recommendations to the Members of the United Nations or to the Security Council or to both on any such questions or matters.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

1. During the period under review, no explicit reference to Article 10 was made in the resolutions adopted by the General Assembly or the Security Council.
2. On a few occasions, Article 10 was explicitly referred to in the deliberations of the General Assembly together with other Articles of the Charter, particularly Articles 11, 12 and 14. There was no explicit reference to Article 10 in the deliberations of the Security Council.
3. During the discussions of the General Assembly, pertinent remarks were made concerning the legal nature of General Assembly resolutions and the authority of the Assembly to make recommendations relating to the powers and functions of certain organs. Since none of these references gave rise to a constitutional discussion, the present study consists only of a summary of practice.
4. Constitutional arguments regarding the competence of the General Assembly to discuss matters which may be considered as being essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of a State are treated in the study on Article 2(7).

5. Resolutions of the General Assembly which appear to bear on the more specific functions and powers of the General Assembly are treated under Articles 11, 13 and 14.
6. Resolutions that may have a bearing on Article 10 are listed in the annex together with the corresponding agenda items. The list includes agenda items which were referred by the General Assembly to the First Committee or the Special Political Committee, agenda items of a political character considered directly at plenary meetings of the General Assembly, as well as agenda items which, because of the nature of the discussion or the provisions of the resolutions adopted thereon, are also considered to have a bearing on Article 10. No constitutional significance should, however, be attached to the listing, which is merely a convenient means of presenting the material.

SUMMARY OF PRACTICE

7. At the thirty-seventh session, on 15 November 1982, the General Assembly, on the recommendation of the Sixth Committee, adopted by consensus resolution 37/10 on the peaceful settlement of disputes between States. Annexed to the resolution was the Manila Declaration on the Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes, which contained the following provision:

“II

“2. Member States shall fulfil in good faith the obligations assumed by them in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations. They should, in accordance with the Charter, as appropriate, duly take into account the recommendations of the Security Council relating to the peaceful settlement of disputes. They should also, in accordance with the Charter, as appropriate, duly take into account the recommendations adopted by the General Assembly, subject to Articles 11 and 12 of the Charter, in the field of peaceful settlement of disputes.”

8. In previous formulations of this provision, reference was made to the obligation of Member States to “implement”¹, “comply with”², “implement and respect”³ or “give due [respect] [weight] to”⁴ the resolutions of both the Security Council and the General Assembly. Such language was amended, however, following remarks made by several representatives on the recommendatory character of Assembly resolutions, as opposed to those decisions of the Council which are legally binding.⁵

9. Also at the thirty-seventh session, the Sixth Committee considered a draft resolution⁶ on the report of the Special Committee on the Charter of the United Nations and on the Strengthening of the Role of the Organization, which contained an explicit reference to Article 10 but, following a motion, was not put to the vote.⁷ Under the draft text, the Assembly would have, inter alia, recognized that Articles 10 and 11 of the Charter vested the General Assembly with functions and powers in the field of maintaining international peace and security; and decided that the Special Committee should undertake a study of the possibility that the resolutions of the General Assembly relating to that field be considered binding. Similar provisions were included in draft resolutions⁸ that were considered by the Sixth Committee in subsequent years, but were not put to the vote following motions to that effect.⁹

10. A large number of resolutions adopted by the General Assembly throughout the period under review might be considered to contain implicit references to Article 10 or otherwise to have a bearing on the Article, on account of the broad powers laid down in the Article.

11. According to the provisions of Article 10, the General Assembly may make recommendations to the Members of the United Nations or to the Security Council, or to both, on any questions or any matters within the scope of the Charter or relating to the powers and functions of any organ provided for in the Charter. The powers of the Assembly under the Article are restricted only by the provision laid down in the first paragraph of Article 12 of the Charter.

12. The practice of the General Assembly in addressing recommendations contained in its resolutions is briefly summarized in the following paragraphs.

13. Recommendations were addressed by the General Assembly as follows: to all Member States,¹⁰ to Member States,¹¹ to certain Member States,¹² to specific Member States,¹³ to all States,¹⁴ to States,¹⁵ to certain States,¹⁶ to all Governments or countries,¹⁷ to Governments or countries,¹⁸ to certain countries,¹⁹ to certain Governments,²⁰ to specific Governments,²¹ to the international community,²² to nuclear-weapon States²³ and non-nuclear-weapon States,²⁴ to colonial Powers²⁵ and administering Powers,²⁶ and to parties concerned.²⁷

14. The General Assembly also addressed its recommendations to the United Nations,²⁸ its specialized agencies and related bodies and other organizations of the United Nations system,²⁹ to other international organizations, including regional arrangements,³⁰ to the General Assembly and its subsidiary organs,³¹ to the Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies,³² as well as to non-governmental organizations,³³ the media³⁴ and individuals.³⁵

15. Recommendations were also addressed to the Security Council³⁶ and its permanent members,³⁷ as well as to the Secretary-General³⁸ and the Secretariat.³⁹

16. At the thirty-sixth and thirty-seventh sessions, discussions in the Fourth Committee concerning the agenda item entitled "Implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples" included three explicit references to Article 10.⁴⁰ In particular, the issue was raised as to whether the Fourth Committee was the appropriate forum to consider a draft resolution⁴¹ on the question of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. On the one hand,⁴² it was held that the question should be dealt with exclusively by the Trusteeship Council because a distinct trusteeship regime established pursuant to Articles 82 and 83 of the Charter applied to the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. To do otherwise would breach established precedents and existing rules of procedure. On the other hand,⁴³ it was maintained that, under Article 10, the General Assembly had "the right ... to deal with all the questions that had been brought before the United Nations". Moreover, it was noted that the Assembly had been dealing with the question of the Territory since 1963.

17. At its sessions held from 1981 through 1984, the Special Committee on the Charter of the United Nations and on the Strengthening of the Role of the Organization examined several proposals on the question of the maintenance of international peace and security, some of which contained explicit references to Article 10 or touched upon its provisions.⁴⁴ These proposals were discussed in accordance with General Assembly resolutions 35/164,⁴⁵ 36/122,⁴⁶ 37/114,⁴⁷ and 38/141⁴⁸ on the subject, in which the Assembly requested the Special Committee to accord priority to its work on proposals regarding the maintenance of international peace and security, including proposals relating to the functioning of the Security Council.⁴⁹ Explicit references to Article 10 were also made during the deliberations of the Sixth Committee on the reports of the Special Committee.⁵⁰

18. Article 10 was also explicitly invoked in the deliberations of the General Assembly and its Main Committees during the consideration of some other agenda items, including: question considered by the Security Council at its 2185th to 2190th meetings, from 5 to 9 January 1980,⁵¹ question of Palestine,⁵² report of the Special Committee on Enhancing the Effectiveness of the Principle of Non-Use of Force in International Relations;⁵³ question of Namibia;⁵⁴ and review of the implementation of the Declaration on the Strengthening of International Security.⁵⁵

19. No explicit reference to Article 10 was made in the deliberations of the Security Council.
