TEXT OF ARTICLE 91

The Trusteeship Council shall, when appropriate, avail itself of the assistance of the Economic and Social Council and of the specialized agencies in regard to matters with which they are respectively concerned.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

1. The procedures for collaboration between the Trusteeship Council, on the one hand, and the Economic and Social Council and the specialized agencies, on the other, were established at an early period and are fully recorded in the Repertory.¹ During the period under review, these procedures were not elaborated further and the present information is confined, therefore, to the extent to which they were put into practice.

2. This material is dealt with in the General Survey. As in the two previous supplements, no Analytical Summary of Practice was considered necessary.

of the annual reports³ of the Administering Authorities on the various Trust Territories which concerned labour, agriculture education and public health. Representatives of these agencies also continued to participate in the deliberations at the regular sessions of the Trusteeship Council, as occasion required.

5. During the twenty-sixth session there were expressions of concern that the specialized agencies had not yet submitted observations regarding the annual report on New Guinea, partly because of the delay in receiving it and partly for other reasons. The value of the assistance provided by the agencies was stressed, and the Administering Authorities were urged to submit their annual reports in time for them to be studied and for observations to be submitted by the agencies.⁴

6. The assistance of the specialized agencies was also sought by the Council in connexion with the revision of the basic Questionnaire. At its twenty-sixth session the Council appointed an Ad Hoc Committee to revise, in consultation with the specialized agencies and the Statistical Office of the United Nations, the statistical portions and the terminology section of the basic Questionnaire in order to bring them into line with the latest statistical practices and methods. Hoc Committee received written comments from the ILO, WHO, FAO, UNESCO and also from the International Monetary Fund.⁵

7. During the Council's thirtieth session, UNESCO deposited with the secretariat of the Council a document entitled "Implementation of resolution 8.2, adopted by the General Conference at its eleventh session, on the role of UNESCO in contributing to the attainment of independence by colonial countries and peoples."

8. In 1964, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development prepared a study entitled "The Economic Development of the Territory of Papua and New Guinea", which was taken into consideration by the 1965 United Nations Visiting Mission to New Guinea, and by the Trusteeship Council at its thirty-second session.

9. WHO prepared a report⁶ for the Council at its thirty-third session on its investigation of complaints contained in a petition concerning the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.⁷ That report was considered in conjunction with the report of the United States Government on the administration of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands for the period from 1 July 1964 to 30 June 1965. The representative of WHO made a statement⁸ on the report and the Council subsequently adopted resolution 2144 (XXXIII) in which it expressed its appreciation to WHO for its valuable report, drew the attention of the Administering Authority to the observations, findings and conclusions contained in the report and urged it to intensify its efforts to remedy the deficiencies in public health and medical services and to take advantage of the advice and assistance offered by WHO and other specialized agencies and United Nations programmes of technical co-operation. By resolution 2145 (XXXIII), the Council also directed the 1967 Visiting Mission to the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands to give attention to the report of WHO.

10. It may also be noted that the General Assembly adopted several resolutions during the period under review concerning United Nations assistance to Trust Territories emerging from trusteeship status to independence. These are referred to under Article 76 of this Supplement.
