DESIGNATION OF 1968 AS INTERNATIONAL YEAR FOR HUMAN RIGHTS

Costa Rica: draft resolution

The Commission on Human Rights,

Noting General Assembly resolution 1961 (XVIII) designating the year 1968 as International Year for Human Rights,

Sharing the view of the General Assembly that, in spite of the substantial measure of progress which has been achieved in giving effect to human rights and fundamental freedoms since the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the effective realization of these rights and freedoms remains unsatisfactory in some parts of the world,

Bearing in mind the broad objectives of achieving a set of goals in the field of human rights not later than 1968, and the preparation of a programme of measures and activities in the field of human rights to be undertaken by Member Governments and the specialized agencies during the year 1968,

Decides that a Committee consisting of five of its members appointed by the Chairman of the Commission shall meet two weeks before the 1965 session of the Commission on Human Rights to prepare a programme of measures and activities to be undertaken by Member States during 1968 in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and in the furtherance of Human Rights and fundamental freedoms,

Requests the Economic and Social Council to recommend the following draft resolution to the General Assembly for consideration at its nineteenth session:

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 1961 (XVIII) of 12 December 1963 designating the year 1968 as International Year for Human Rights,

Recognizing the need for effective measures to be taken at both the international and the national levels to encourage the further development of human rights and fundamental freedoms,

Reaffirming the belief that the cause of human rights will be well served by an increasing awareness of the extent of the progress made, and the conviction that the year 1968 should be devoted to intensified national and international efforts and undertakings in the field of human rights and also to an international review of the achievements in this field,

Convinced that an intensification of efforts in the intervening years will heighten the progress that can be made by 1968,
