

DR. ANTHEA ROBERTS

Associate Professor, Australian National University

Anthea Roberts is an Associate Professor at the Australian National University who specializes in public international law, investment treaty law and arbitration, comparative international law and China's approach to international law. Anthea was previously an Associate Professor at the London School of Economics (2008-2015), a Visiting Professor and Professor at Columbia Law School (2012-2015) and a Visiting Professor at Harvard Law School (2011-2012). She is also a Visiting Professor on the Masters of International Dispute Settlement at the Graduate Institute and the University of Geneva.

Anthea serves on the editorial boards of the American Journal of International Law, the European Journal of International Law, the Journal of World Trade and Investment and the ICSID Review. She is one of the Reporters for the Restatement (Fourth) of the Foreign Relations Law of the United States. Anthea has twice been awarded the Francis Deák Prize by the American Society of International Law for the best article published in the American Journal of International Law by a scholar under 40 years of age. In 2012, she was awarded a UK Leverhulme Prize for being 'one of the leading international lawyers of her generation.'

Anthea has experience as an arbitrator, an expert and counsel in international investment and commercial arbitrations, and as an expert and counsel in public international law cases before international and domestic courts. From 2003 to 2008, she was an Attorney in the International Dispute Resolution Group at Debevoise & Plimpton LLP in New York and London. She has been admitted as a Legal Practitioner in Australia (ACT and High Court of Australia, 2001), as an Attorney in New York (State and Federal Southern and Eastern Districts, 2004), and as a Solicitor in England and Wales (2007). She also served as an Associate to Chief Justice Gleeson at the Australian High Court and an Intern for Judge Bruno Simma at the International Court of Justice.