

MR. CHARLES C. JALLOH

Professor of Law, Florida International University

Member, International Law Commission

Charles C. Jalloh is a professor of law at Florida International University, a member of the International Law Commission and the founding editor-in-chief of the African Journal of Legal Studies and the African Journal of International Criminal Justice. He was formerly assistant and then associate professor of law at the University of Pittsburgh School of Law, where he was selected as the Buchanan Ingersoll & Rooney Faculty Scholar for 2013-2014. He has published widely on issues of international criminal law, one of his main areas of research interest, including book chapters as well as articles in some of the leading peer-reviewed journals in the field as well as books with prestigious academic presses. These include as author, The Criminal Law of South Sudan (IDLO, 2014, with Thomas Jada) and as editor The Sierra Leone Special Court and Its Legacy: The Impact for Africa and International Criminal Law (Cambridge, 2014 hardback, 2015 paperback); Shielding Humanity: Essays in International Law in Honour of Judge Abdul G. Koroma, (Brill, 2015, with Femi Elias); Promoting Accountability Under International Law for Gross Violations in Africa: Essays in Honor of Prosecutor Hassan Jallow (Brill, 2015, with Alhagi Marong); and four volumes of the first comprehensive Law Reports of the Special Court for Sierra Leone (Brill, 2012 The AFRC Case, 2014 The CDF Case, 2015 The Charles Taylor Case, forthcoming 2018 The RUF Case, with Simon Meisenberg). His more recent works include The International Criminal Court in an Effective Global Justice System (Elgar, 2016, co-authored with Linda Carter and Mark Ellis); and The International Criminal Court and Africa (Oxford University Press, 2017, edited with Ilias Bantekas). His monograph, The Legal Legacy of the Sierra Leone Tribunal, and edited book, The African Court of Justice and Human and Peoples' Rights: Development and Challenges (with Kamari Clarke and Vincent Nmehielle), are forthcoming Cambridge University Press (2018).

Called to the Ontario Bar in Canada in 2004, he has advised states and international organizations on issues of domestic and international law in his previous role as counsel in the Crimes Against Humanity and War Crimes Section, Department of Justice Canada;

the Trade Law Bureau of the Canadian Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade; an associate legal officer in Chambers in the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda working on high profile cases involving the 1994 Rwandan genocide; the legal adviser to the Defense Office in the Special Court for Sierra Leone, and as visiting professional, the International Criminal Court (ICC).

In 2015, Professor Jalloh served as the first amicus counsel representing the African Union Commission in proceedings before the Appeals Chamber of the ICC. He has given numerous invited lectures in different parts of the world, as well as held leadership positions in various learned societies. Between 2012-2014, he co-chaired the International Criminal Law Interest Group of the American Society of International Law. For several years, he was member of the Advisory Panel to the President of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia and the Advisory Board of the War Crimes Committee of the International Bar Association. He has been a member and rapporteur of the International Law Association's Committee on Complementarity in International Criminal Law and currently sits on the advisory board of eyeWitness to Atrocities.

Born and raised in Sierra Leone, his education includes a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Guelph, Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Civil Law degrees from McGill University and a Master's in International Human Rights Law, with distinction, from Oxford University, where he was a Chevening Scholar and graduated with distinction. He holds a Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) specializing in international law from the University of Amsterdam.