

MR. ANTONIOS TZANAKOPOULOS

Associate Professor of Public International Law Faculty of Law, University of Oxford

Antonios Tzanakopoulos is Associate Professor of Public International Law at the University of Oxford and Fellow in Law at St Anne's College, Oxford. He has taught as a visitor at the Universities of Paris (Paris Ouest Nanterre La Défense) and London (King's College). Previously, he was Lecturer in Law at University College London and at the University of Glasgow.

Antonios studied law in Athens (LLB, LLM), New York (NYU, LLM), and Oxford (DPhil), during which time he also taught as a graduate teaching assistant for the Faculty of Law, and worked as a researches for the Hellenic Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Athens and New York, and for the UN International Law Commission in Geneva.

Antonios has varied research interests within the field of general international law, and has published books and articles on aspects of the law of international organisations, the law of international responsibility, international dispute settlement, the law of treaties, and the law of armed conflict. His books include Disobeying the Security Council – Countermeasures against Wrongful Sanctions (OUP 2011); The Settlement of International Disputes – Basic Documents (Hart 2012) (co-edited with Christian J Tams); The United Nations Convention on Jurisdictional Immunities of States and their Property – A Commentary (OUP 2013) (assistant editor, edited by Roger O'Keefe and Christian J Tams); and Research Handbook on the Law of Treaties (Elgar 2014) (co-edited with Christian J Tams and Andreas Zimmermann).

Antonios has advised States, international organisations, and private entities on matters of public international law. He has advised and assisted counsel and members of tribunals or provided expert opinions in cases before the International Court of Justice, EU courts, the European Court of Human Rights, ad hoc and ICSID arbitral tribunals and the High Court of England and Wales. He has also provided training on international law to domestic judges from various jurisdictions, as well as diplomats, military officers, and other government officials.

Antonios is a member of the Athens Bar; member of the editorial board of Oxford Reports on International Law in Domestic Courts; Joint Secretary of the British Branch of the International Law Association; and co-Rapporteur of the Study Group of the International Law Association on Principles of Engagement of Domestic Courts with International Law.