INTRODUCTORY NOTE

At its 71st meeting on 2 August 1976 the Conference authorized the President to prepare a revised single negotiating text on the subject of settlement of disputes, which would have the same status as parts I to III of the revised single negotiating text. In accordance with that decision, the President now presents part IV of the revised single negotiating text which takes into account the discussions in the informal sessions of the plenary during the fifth session, and the formal and informal negotiations and proposals submitted both by delegations and groups. This text is presented as a further stage in the work of the Conference, has no other status than that of serving as a basis for continued negotiation, and is without prejudice to the right of any delegation to move any amendment or to introduce any new proposals. It is a procedural device to carry forward the process of negotiation in the expectation that it will help towards the attainment of general agreement.

Wherever the discussions showed a clear trend, the text is intended to reflect it. Where, however, sharp disagreement with divided views existed, the thrust of the text was maintained where it appeared to provide a compromise. Drafting changes have been effected when the discussions showed the need for clarification.

Certain articles necessarily take their form from the provisions of parts I to III of the revised single negotiating text. Should those texts be later changed on the basis of the negotiations within the Committees on the substantive issues involved, corresponding changes will be necessary in the present text.

As regards the provisions relating to limitations of jurisdiction including those concerned with certain rights of coastal States (article 17), optional exceptions to jurisdiction (article 18) and the provisions relating to the constitution of the Law of the Sea Tribunal and the sea-bed disputes chamber (articles 2 and 15 of annex II), any final formulation would have to take into account and be dependent upon negotiations relevant to corresponding provisions of other parts; to this extent, although the text is intended to provide a compromise, these articles must be considered as provisional.

The functional procedures in annex IV are a simplification of the four annexes that earlier constituted the special procedures. The negotiations in relation to this subject could not be expressed as indicating a trend in one direction. As a consequence and on account of the new formulation of paragraph 5 of article 9 relating to the applicable procedure where the parties have not accepted the jurisdiction of the same court or tribunal, the option of special arbitration is maintained.

The precise relationship of this part to the other parts of the proposed convention is yet to be determined, subject to which the present text is intended to provide a basis for negotiations on the subject of settlement of disputes to continue in parallel with the negotiations on the other parts of the revised single negotiating text.

Part IV. Settlement of disputes

Having regard to the Declaration on Principles of International Law concerning Friendly Relations and Co-operation among States in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations . . .

SECTION I

Article 1Obligation to settle disputes by peaceful means

The Contracting Parties shall settle any dispute between them relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention in accordance with paragraph 3 of article 2, and through the peaceful means indicated in paragraph 1 of article 33, of the Charter of the United Nations.

Article 2Settlement of disputes by means chosen by the parties

Nothing in this part shall impair the right of any Contracting Parties to agree at any time to settle a dispute between them relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention by any peaceful means of their own choice.

Article 3Obligation to exchange views

1. If a dispute arises between Contracting Parties relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention, those parties shall proceed expeditiously to exchange views regarding settlement of the dispute.

2. Similarly, the parties shall proceed to an exchange of views whenever a procedure for the settlement of a dispute has been terminated without a settlement of the dispute, or where a settlement has been reached and the circumstances require further consultation regarding the manner of its implementation.

Article 4Obligations under general, regional or special agreements

If Contracting Parties which are parties to a dispute relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention have accepted, through a general, regional or special agreement or some other instrument or instruments, an obligation to settle such dispute by resort to a final and binding procedure, such dispute shall, at the request of any part to the dispute, be referred to such procedure. In this case any other procedure provided in this part shall not apply, unless the parties to the dispute otherwise agree.

Article 5Procedure when dispute is not settled by means chosen by the parties

1. If the parties to a dispute relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention have agreed to settle such dispute by a peaceful means of their own choice, the procedure specified in this part shall apply only where no settlement has been reached, and the agreement between the parties does not preclude any further procedure.

2. If the parties to such dispute have also agreed on a time-limit for such a procedure, the provisions of paragraph 1 shall apply only upon the expiration of that time-limit.

Article 6Conciliation

1. Any Contracting Party which is party to a dispute relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention may invite the other party or parties to the dispute to submit the dispute to conciliation in accordance with the procedure in annex I or with some other procedure.

2. If the other party accepts this invitation and the parties agree upon the procedure, any party to the dispute may submit it to the agreed conciliation procedure.

3. If the other party does not accept the invitation or the parties do not agree upon the procedure, the conciliation proceedings shall be deemed to be terminated.

4. When a dispute has been submitted to conciliation, such conciliation proceedings may only be terminated in accordance with the provisions of annex I or other agreed conciliation procedure, as the case may be.

SECTION 2

Article 7Application of section 1 and proceedings under section 2

Any dispute relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention which has not been excluded under articles 17 and 18 shall, where no settlement has been reached by recourse to the provisions of section 1, be submitted, at the request of any party to the dispute, to the court or tribunal having jurisdiction under the provisions of section 2.

Article 8Procedures in other parts

1. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this part and unless the parties otherwise agree, section 2 shall not apply to the settlement of any specific category of disputes for which another part of the present Convention provides a procedure which may be initiated by any party to the dispute and entails a binding decision.

2. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this part and unless the parties otherwise agree, section 2 shall apply to the settlement of a specific category of disputes for which another part of the present Convention provides a non-binding procedure, provided that:

(a) Such procedure has been concluded;

(b) No settlement has been reached; and

(c) The relevant part provides that the dispute shall be resolved by the procedures set forth in this part.

Article 9Choice of procedure

1. A Contracting Party, when ratifying or otherwise expressing its consent to be bound by the present Convention, or at any time thereafter, shall be free to choose, by means of a declaration, one or more of the following procedures for the settlement of disputes relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention:

(a) The Law of the Sea Tribunal;

(b) The International Court of Justice;

(c) Arbitration in accordance with annex III;

(d) The special arbitration procedure in accordance with annex IV, for one or more of the categories of disputes specified therein.

2. If a Contracting Party makes a declaration accepting the special arbitration procedure for any of the categories of disputes specified in Annex IV, it shall include the acceptance of one or more of the other procedures specified in paragraph 1 for the settlement of disputes to which the accepted special arbitration procedure is not applicable.

3. If a Contracting Party has not made a declaration under the preceding paragraphs, or if upon the expiration of such a declaration as a result of revocation no new declaration has been made, it shall be deemed to have accepted arbitration in accordance with annex III.

4. If the parties to a dispute have accepted or are deemed to have accepted the same procedure for the settlement of such dispute, it may only be submitted to that procedure, unless the parties otherwise agree.

5. If the parties to a dispute have not accepted or are not deemed to have accepted the same procedure, the party initiating proceedings may submit the dispute either to one of the procedures chosen by the other party, or to arbitration in accordance with annex III, unless the parties otherwise agree.

6. The declarations referred to in this article shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall transmit copies thereof to the Contracting Parties.

7. Any declaration made under this article shall remain in force until three months after notice of revocation has been deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall transmit copies thereof to the Contracting Parties.

8. When a dispute has been submitted to a court or tribunal having jurisdiction under this article, a new declaration, or the revocation or expiration of a declaration, shall not affect in any way the proceedings so pending, unless the parties otherwise agree.

Article 10Competence

1. Any court or tribunal provided for in article 9 shall have jurisdiction in any dispute relating to the interpretation or application of the present Convention which is submitted to it in accordance with the provisions of this part.

2. Any court or tribunal provided for in article 9 shall have jurisdiction in any dispute relating to the interpretation or application of an international agreement related to the purposes of the present Convention, which is submitted to it in accordance with the provisions of such agreement.

3. In the event of disagreement between the parties to a dispute as to whether the court or tribunal to which such dispute has been submitted has jurisdiction, the matter shall be settled by the decision of that court or tribunal. Such a decision shall be taken in strict accordance with the provisions of article 9 or the international agreement in accordance with which the dispute was submitted, as the case may be.

Article 11Expert advice and assistance

In any dispute involving scientific or technical matters which has been submitted to the Law of the Sea Tribunal, the International Court of Justice, or an arbitral tribunal constituted in accordance with annex III, the court or tribunal in question may, in exercising jurisdiction under this section, at the request of a party to the dispute or on its own initiative, and in consultation with the parties, select not less than two and not more than four scientific or technical experts from the appropriate list prepared in accordance with article 2 of annex IV, who shall sit with such court or tribunal throughout all the stages of the proceedings, but without the right to vote.

Article 12

Provisional measures

1. Any court or tribunal to which a dispute has been submitted under this section shall have the power to prescribe such provisional measures as it considers appropriate under the circumstances to preserve the respective rights of the parties to the dispute or to prevent serious harm to the marine environment, pending final adjudication.

2. Any provisional measures under this article may only be prescribed, modified or revoked upon the request of a party to the dispute and after giving the parties an opportunity to be heard. Notice of any provisional measures shall be given forthwith by the court or tribunal to the parties to the dispute and to such other Contracting Parties as it considers appropriate.

3. If a dispute has been submitted under this section to a tribunal which has not been constituted, any court or tribunal agreed upon by the parties or, failing such agreement within two weeks, the Law of the Sea Tribunal, shall have the power to prescribe provisional measures in conformity with paragraphs 1 and 2, if it considers that the urgency of the situation so requires. As soon as it has been constituted, the tribunal to which the dispute has been submitted may affirm, modify or revoke such provisional measures, acting in conformity with paragraphs 1 and 2.

4. As soon as the circumstances justifying the provisional measures have changed or ceased to exist, such provisional measures may be modified or revoked by the tribunal to which the dispute has been submitted or, where such tribunal has not been constituted, by the court or tribunal which prescribed the provisional measures under paragraph 3.

5. Any provisional measures prescribed or modified under this article shall be promptly complied with by the parties to the dispute.

which the parties have accepted in accordance with article 9 for the settlement of disputes relating to navigation, unless the parties otherwise agree.

2. An application for such release may be brought by the flag State of the vessel, or on its behalf by either a diplomatic or consular officer.

3. A Contracting Party which has made a declaration under paragraph 1 may at any time withdraw it, or agree to submit a dispute excluded by such declaration to a procedure specified in section 2.

4. A Contracting Party which has made a declaration under paragraph 1 shall not be entitled to submit any dispute falling within the excepted category to any procedure in section 2 as against any other Contracting Party, without the consent of that party.

5. If one of the Contracting Parties has made a declaration under subparagraph 1 (a) of this article, any other Contracting Party may submit any excepted category of dispute against the declarant party to the procedure specified in such declaration.
